ARE WE ALL PESSIMISTS?

In times of depression every town has pessimists who think that because business is falling off the whole town is going to the low-woods. It is wonderful, too, the depressing effect the pessimistic ones have on the rest of the community. For a time, possibly, they have no effect but like the drop of ink in a jug of water they eventually make things look cloudy. Even our town does not seem to have escaped this experience. Our merchants and those who have the interests of our town at heart seem to have fallen in to the stream of pessimism and like the dead fish are going with the stream. This may be a broad and bold statement but we feel sure that a review of events for the past few months will justify the statement.

Months ago the Review brought to the attention of its readers the absolute necessity of an elevator at this point if we were desirous of making a bid for the trade of farmers of this district. In our article we outlined the steps necessary to take in order to obtain government assistance, but notwithstanding the fact that most of our merchants and business men agreed with us that such a step was absolutely necessary, not a single one of them ever made any move in this direction till only a few weeks ago when it was too late to do anything for this year.

Last Saturday evening a meeting of the business men in town was called to meet at Box Springs to talk over with the farmers of the district the prospect of starting now to make the necessary arrangements for building an elevator here next year, and discussing other questions of interest to both town and country. At this meeting only one business man from Redcliff put in an appearance. Last Wednesday evening a meeting was called here in town for the purpose of discussing the advisability of starting a market and it was like pulling teeth to get enough business men present to form a committee. A town cannot be considered progressive or prosperous unless its merchants are progressive and prosperous, and merchants cannot be considered progressive and prosperous unless they take an active interest in all things pertaining to the welfare and development of the town and district.

CANADIANS' MAINTAIN RECORD

The details of the action near LaBasse on the 15th of June show that the Canadians are maintaining their splendid record on the battlefield. The toll of life is 37, Julien and his eight battle near Ypres is exceedingly heavy, but it seems to have been much exceeded by that taken of the first western Ontario battalion. This regiment, which went into action with between 600 and 700 men, had 600 killed or wounded; 52 of these only 3 came through unscathed, 12 being killed outright.

The heroism of these brave adds lustre to the Canadian name and imparts a thrill of pride to every native of this country. But at what's price is bought! At times these efforts seem futile one sacrifice calling for another, And still it cannot be that these shall go for naught. The cause in which we fight is a noble one and must have triumph, unless right and justice have perished from the earth.

PASSING OF PRINCESS PATS

The story of what was probably the last action participated in by the Princess Pats as a separate unit, and narrated by the Canadian eye-witness, Sir Max Aitkins, depicts in a striking manner the awful nature of the fighting and the heroism of the men. In a war in which so many British regiments and so many thousands of men have fought with the utmost courage and gallantry it is perhaps improbable that many regiments will stand out much beyond the others. However the circumstances under which this regiment was organized and the men recruited, have surrounded it with a sentimental interest uncommonly strong. It is, then, with a more than ordinary degree of sadness that one reads the following from the official report:

"Few, indeed, are left of the men who met in Lansdowne Park, Ottawa, to receive the regimental colours nearly a year ago, but those who survived and the friends of those who have died may draw solace from the thought that never in the history of arms have soldiers more valiantly sustained the gift and trust of a lady."

In a sense the Princess Pats were regiments of veterans, for the great majority of the rank and file had seen active service. The splendid physique of the men and their soldierly bearing made a lasting impression on those who saw them. On the battlefield it has lived up to the high expectations of its ardent admirers and the general public. Many have been the accounts of its splendid deeds, but now the Princess Pats is no more.

DOMINION DAY

Just forty-eight years ago yesterday the Dominion of Canada, as such, first saw the light of day. It was on July 1st, 1867, when all the then provinces of the Dominion of Canada were united into one confederation, the primary object of which was the working together for the common good of all. How well and truly laid were the foundations of that confederation are only now being fully realized. Although for forty-eight years we have been celebrating this event not one of the anniversaries has found Canada passing through such trying experiences as on this occasion. As a portion of the British Empire she is in the throes of the greatest struggle the world has ever seen.

Like any one of her citizens, celebrating his forty-eighth birthday, Canada may be considered to be in her prime, and the manner in which she is accounting herself in the present crisis augurs well for the position as a nation which she is bound to hold in the years to come in the eyes of the whole world.

Great and glorious as has been the showing of her sons fighting in defence of the Empire, yet there is an equally great and glorious part to be played by those left behind in fighting the great battles of moral, economic and social problems within her own borders. History bears witness that states fall as much from internal corruption as from outward violence. This being the case it behooves every Canadian citizen, upon reaching this, another milestone in his country's career, to look well to the limits of his own door posts and to take advantage of every opportunity which presents itself to raise the moral atmosphere of his community to the highest possible standard.

If an anniversary means anything, whether it be individual or national, it means looking over the mistakes of the years gone by and making a solemn resolution to never make the same mistakes again.

On this first of July, 1915, Canada's natal day comes a call to the youth of the land to arise in defence of the nation's morals as well as of its territory; its trade and its commerce.

It begins to look as though President Wilson would have to be forced to make good his declaration that the United States would restore order in Mexico, if the warring chieftains did not come together. This none of the Mexicans leaders have shown any symptom of doing so far, and the country is in a state of chaos indescribable. Uncle Sam stands committed to a big and unpleasant job, but it apparently will have to be done.

Astronomers tell us that for the first time in years the moon did not get full last month. Can it be that the moon is starting to mend its ways in preparation for what is going to happen on the 21st of this month. Or is it that the moon, like many people, is starting to save and mope by part of its last quarter.

We wish to thank the Medicine Hat News for kindly loaning the cuts showing part of the damage done here last Friday by the cyclone.

Farm Help for the Harvest Season

The Department of Agriculture plans to advise the farmers of the province that in view of the large increase in the acreage needed to grain and the promising crop conditions, there is likely to be a very great demand this season for harvest help and as there are a large number of unemployed workers in our cities at the present time it would be well to engage such help as may be needed at the earliest possible moment.

"Hitherto it has been the policy of the railway companies to induce westward immigration for harvest help, but this year it may be assumed that no such movement will be possible, as conditions in the Eastern provinces are very similar to those in the west and very little or no immigration from Europe.

At the present time there are a number of unemployed in Alberta. There are now, however, over 100,000 men armed, and recruiting is progressing steadily. Before harvest therefore, it is safe to count on upward of 60,000 more men will have been withdrawn. It is also expected that the railway and municipal work will rapidly employ many of the present unemployed, so there is likely to be a scarcity of help for harvest work if arrangements are not made at once to secure the necessary assistance.

Good Opening for Canadian Fruit Trade

As showing to some extent how much fruit-growing means to Canada, it is worth while noting the amount of trade formerly done by the countries at war that lies open for cultivation by this country. At the Canadian Fruit Growers Conference held at Grimsby last September, Mr. J. A. Rudick, dairy and cold storage commissioner, stated that he had taken a period of five years and that he had made a period of five years. He had found the importations of apples from Germany to Britain varied one year from 5,000 to 14,000 bushels boxes; from Belgium from 100,000 to 500,000 boxes; from France from 50,000 to 60,000 boxes and from Portugal from 175,000 to 500,000 boxes. Of years the importations varied from 4,480 to 56,000 bushels boxes from Germany and 2,500 to 480 boxes from Belgium and from 42,440 to 506,100 boxes from Portugal. Large quantities were also imported from The Netherlands which may not be available. Mr. Rudick prognosticated an increase of demand for fruit and vegetables from Great Britain for use in the army. In 1913 Canada exported of this line to the United Kingdom 121,188 pounds; to Newfoundland 10,589 pounds and to Germany 247,902 pounds. Of course the trade with Germany will be cut off but the exportations should expand in other directions.

SOUND ADVICE TO MANUFACTURERS

Protect Interests of Employees—Highest Quality and Workmanship in War Supplies

A few weeks ago the General Secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association addressed an open letter to all the members asking them to make every sacrifice to protect the interests of those dependent on them for employment. In talking of the war, but also to other causes it is probable that the coming winter will see considerable distress by reason of unemployment. In fulfilling their responsibilities under the unusual conditions that prevail, two courses are recommended to manufacturers in the circular in question.

Employment
"On the principle that half a loaf is better than none it is as far as possible to keep all your staff working part time rather than a partial staff working full time. Next remember that business which under normal conditions would forego, because it promised either no profit at all or an insufficient profit, is business which under existing conditions you should accept because of the wages it will enable you to pay to those who might otherwise go hungry. The very effort to keep the wheels turning. Loss no business in competition with an important war effort. As a matter of fact, every effort to beat him. If need be, take your workmen into your confidence. Your interests are their interests, and they may be found willing to help in ways you would not suppose.

Dependents
"The dependents of those who have gone to the front will in most cases be provided for out of the Patriotic Funds now in process of collection. See to it that none whom your employees have left behind are in present want. Report their cases to the local directors of the fund, and if you are caring for them personally, report that fact too. The families of men on active service who are unable to full or partial pay from you should not be charged upon the fund to the same extent as those not similarly situated. In view of the fact that you may do in this direction should rank as a contribution to the fund, and will not be charged as 'unaided'."

Canada First
"Another paragraph appeals to the manufacturers to be consistent in their 'Made-in-Canada' policy. Manufacturers are urged to make Canada, as far as possible, self-sustaining, and to endeavor in view of the fact that supplies for manufacturing in Canada from Canadian producers, and failing that, within the Empire.

"A small saving on manufacturing cost that might in some cases be effected by importing from a neutral country will be an insignificant sacrifice."

Suggests That Farmers Raise Medicine Plants

To prescribe or even to give a list of the 500 varieties of plants that come under the head of medicinal, as given in a more than ordinarily interesting bulletin by Assistant Dominion Botanist J. Adams, M. A., would take up an exceptional amount of space. As Adams intimates his publication, "Medicinal Plants and Their Cultivation in Canada," it is Bulletin No. 20, second series, of the Experimental Farms, and can be had free by addressing the publication branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa Director General, of the Dominion Experimental Farms, makes a correct estimate when he says "The information as to the value of many medicinal plants is of value to many farmers."

Mr. Adams, in addition to giving description and exact illustrations, in every case gives the market price. Following are small quantities of Irish Moss, Ergot, Male Fern, White Pine, Hemlock, balsam fir, Juniper and so on. The quantity 24 pages two to five, a page, and then we have foreign medicinal plants which will grow in Canada. This is a publication and a comprehensive index to the instructions and interest of an exceedingly valuable booklet.

CUTWORMS AND HOW TO FIGHT THEM.

Farmers, market gardeners and others who cultivate the soil will be pleased to know that the entomological section of the Dominion department of agriculture has issued a 11 page bulletin (No. 10) on "Cutworms and their Control," prepared by Mr. Arthur Gibson, chief assistant entomologist. The bulletin is fully illustrated, the figures being clear and well chosen. Altogether there are 60 illustrations of cutworm methods of injury, etc. Copies of this new publication may be had free of charge on Application to the chief of the publications branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Enquiries regarding these insects or other kind which are found to be injuring crops, be addressed to The entomologist, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE FARMING.

A royal commission is to be appointed by the government to investigate the question of increased agricultural production in the Dominion, together with the related questions of wider markets, further employment for the unemployed, etc. The commission which is to be appointed at the recommendation of the prime minister and in response to a request made by the congress of mayors which visited the capital some weeks ago will be authorized to employ such scientific and professional assistance as its members may determine, and make interim report from time to time.

General News Notes

From Various Points

PORTLAND, ORE., has received a letter from a shipping agent, and has been informed that the German government has decided to allow the export of certain goods to the United States, and that the German government has decided to allow the export of certain goods to the United States.

Great interest is being shown in the arrival of a number of German prisoners of war, who are being sent to the United States, and who are being sent to the United States.

Within a week, it is declared, the German government will be at war, and the German government will be at war, and the German government will be at war.

Hispanic Canada, aged 85, of the College of Notre Dame, at Ottawa, at Ottawa, and three priests, were killed June 1st by German troops, and the German government has decided to allow the export of certain goods to the United States.

Three sticks of dynamite, wrapped in a pasteboard box, were found on the doorstep of Andrew Carnegie's residence in New York City, and the German government has decided to allow the export of certain goods to the United States.

The London board of trade has decided to allow the export of certain goods to the United States, and the German government has decided to allow the export of certain goods to the United States.

Prison casualties in the war are estimated at 1,409,480 in an official statement issued at Berlin. The same statement adds that $15,000,000 damage was done on German soil by the Russian invasion of East Prussia.

A meeting set for July 3, is said to be on foot in the States in which the members of the German, Austrian and Hungarian organizations throughout the country will form a political and fraternal league with the object of forcing the United States government to put a stop to the sale of arms and munitions to the foes of Germany.

The Russian retirement through Galicia, including the fall of Lemberg, has been likened to the retreat of General Joffre to the Marne early in the war. The Russians explain that such a successful retirement is in no way equivalent to a defeat. As General Joffre was not able to allow the Germans to approach near Paris, neither are the Russians alarmed at their advance on the Russian territory.

Lord Curzon, speaking in the house of commons, gave an indignant denial to the assertion that Canadian munition makers have been snubbed. He declared that offers from Canadian firms had been accepted from time to time, but that the negotiations went through the Canadian government as was previously arranged. The fact has been done in spite of the fact that Canadian makers do not make complete shells, and that component parts have to be obtained in the United States.

A meeting of the committee formed for the purpose of giving relief to sufferers from the Lusitania disaster, held recently in London, it was announced that only £20,000 (£100,000 had been subscribed, whereas for the Titanic relief committee £148,000 (£200,000), and for the Empress of Ireland committee, £97,000 (£205,000), had been raised.

Many curious rumors are widely circulated in London concerning the growing German desire for peace. These rumors, which are coming from the most diverse continental sources, are that the German government is informally and indirectly attempting to persuade either the pope or President Wilson to make an alliance upon a proposal to end the war as a draw. There is a growing German party, unable to make itself heard in the press yet, using its influence for peace.

Great anxiety is reported in Berlin official circles regarding Bulgarian intervention. The allies are known to have made a new proposal to Bulgaria within the last few days, and Bulgaria is said to have presented the substance of the offer to the German minister, who is preparing a counter proposal.

Remarkable fighting is reported by Swiss guides in the Italian defense of the Stelvio pass, which is known as the "back door" to Italy. Artillery duels are a daily occurrence above the clouds. Both sides have to depend entirely on telephone communication for the message. Italian handlines in the valleys fly straight up through the clouds at the Austrian artillery and block houses on the summits of the highest peaks. The pass is covered with two feet of snow, and presents an unusual spectacle at night, being illuminated by the searchlights of both sides and by flashes of artillery fire.

In the bombardment of arms by the Germans the hospital of the Holy Sacrament was particularly damaged. Some of the sisters and nurses are said to have lost their lives.

With the exception of a small front along the River Danube, all the Russian armies are again within their own frontiers. Heavy fighting was reported to north of Lemberg even before the fall of the city, and it is thought that the Grand Duke Nicholas may have some difficulty in withdrawing his men to the next lines.

SASKATCHEWAN BARS ARE NOW ALL CLOSED.
On Wednesday evening all bars in Saskatchewan automatically closed doors the recently passed "Sale of Liquor Act," and at the same time all wholesale liquor houses in the province ceased to exist. On Friday morning the government liquor stores, or dispensaries as they have become known, opened at 20 places in Saskatchewan. In three of the cities, Regina, Moose Jaw and Saskatoon, there will be two such stores and in all other places one.

Southern Alberta

Strikes Flow of Oil

The Southern Alberta oil well is a flowing well, the first, in the field, and making a showing of oil that goes far beyond the wildest dreams of the most optimistic enthusiasts. The well is full of high grade oil to the very top and only the cap prevents it from boiling out like a geyser of petroleum. It is estimated that a pressure of 1,160 pounds to the square inch is necessary to force the oil from the bottom of the well to the surface, and 200 more to blow out the cap in the way it did.

The oil appears to be stored under considerable natural pressure, like steam in a boiler. It has been confined there for ages, waiting the moment when human agency should pierce the shell and set it free.

The sympathy of the entire west goes out to Redcliff and the surrounding country which suffered so heavily from the storm of last week. COLIN MCLEAN IN HOSPITAL IN FRANCE lay down his rifle till we have swept the earth of those men who face on in the trenches. If they would only come out in the open we would lick them three to one. I've seen it done and know what I am talking about. Never mind, we'll get them yet, and soon.

"I notice by the Review I saw the other day that the Redcliff boys have started off in football. Keep up the good work. I may yet be home to have a game before the season finishes.

I heard the other day that several of the Redcliff boys belonging to the First contingent had been wounded, among them being Andy Henderson, Bill Neale, Ned Cameron and Bill Stinson. P. T. Smith has been in the hospital some time suffering from a nervous break down. I expect he is now back with the regiment.

In six weeks our regiment, the Canadian Scottish, has made two bayonet charges, each time doing all that was asked of them. I guess there are lots more to store for us.

Hope you are progressing in every way in Redcliff and that before long I will have the opportunity of walking up Broadway to call on you.

Best regards to everybody.

Yours,

COLIN F. MCLEAN.

And Save Your Independence

And Self Respect

When you vote "No" on July

21st you administer a well merited

rebuke to intolerance, selfishness, and self-seeking; to bitter, intemperate destructionists.

They would saddle you with an impractical legislation because it means a meagre, empty and brief success for them. They would deceive you with endless

abuse on a subject which is too

broad for their rutted mentalities to grasp. They refuse to see the financial burdens which their actions will bring on the tax-payers of Alberta if the Liquor Act carries. They are not capable of creating sane legislation.
